Course description: Crop Ecology involves the study of interactions between crops and their abiotic and biotic environments. Emphasis will be placed on quantitatively examining theory and principles for production, stability and sustainability of agricultural ecosystems. Course content is intended to encourage student advancement in literacy, numeracy, written and oral communication and independence of thought.

Course objectives: To understand and describe how plant adaptations to environment affect crop selection, growth and yield. To describe crop responses to radiation quality, quantity and photoperiod. To describe plant adaptation and acclimation to temperature. To understand crop adaptation and acclimation to precipitation. To describe and understand crop interactions with pests. To understand and quantify services provided by agroecosystems including food, fiber and fuel production, water quantity and quality, nutrient cycling, climate regulation and biodiversity. The ultimate goal of the course is for students to be able to use tools of crop ecology to come up with new ways to address the ever-changing challenges of agricultural production.

Class Schedule: Meets period 5 and 6 (11:45 a.m. – 1:40 p.m.) on Tuesday and period 5 on Thursday (11:45 a.m. - 12:35 p.m.) in 2316 Fifield Hall

Office Hours: Generally, before or after class is the best time to meet with the instructor, but I can be seen by appointment at other times. I strongly encourage students to meet me if you have any questions or need clarification of course content.

Course Textbook: There is no required textbook for the course. I will, however, refer to the textbooks below throughout the course. Excerpts from these texts and other additional readings from the primary literature for the course will provided through Sakai.

Instructional approach: Dr. Erickson will present nearly all instructional content. If you are having any problems with the course or need assistance, don’t wait until late in the semester to contact the instructor. The sooner we begin to address the problem, the more likely you will achieve a satisfactory outcome.

Exams will be given during lecture periods as scheduled in your syllabus. They will emphasize material covered in the preceding one-third of the course, but some material on the exams will be comprehensive. Exams will be closed book (any necessary formulas/equations will be provided in the exam) and you will be expected to finish within the scheduled period.

Attendance: Student class attendance will be noted. Students are responsible for all material covered in lecture and all assigned materials. Attendance is important for mastering course content and there will be no make-up exams or in-class assignments except for excused absences. Make-up work should be arranged prior to the excused absence if possible (e.g., university-sanctioned events), or immediately upon the student’s return to class for unexpected excused absences (e.g., illness or death in the immediate family).

Grading: There will be a total of 600 points for the class. The three exams will count 100 points each. The total point value of the four to six in-class and/or take-home assignments (indicated by HWK on schedule) will be worth 150 points. You will also be required to submit a brief (less than two single-spaced pages) paper on a topic/question/cropping system approved by the instructor (100 points), and make a short presentation on the paper to the class (50 points).

Accommodations for Students with Disabilities
Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter which must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester.

Online Course Evaluation Process

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing online evaluation at https://evaluations.ufl.edu (Links to an external site.). Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results/ (Links to an external site.).

Academic Honesty

In 1995 the UF student body enacted an honor code and voluntarily committed itself to the highest standards of honesty and integrity. When students enroll at the university, they commit themselves to the standard drafted and enacted by students, which states "We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code." On all work submitted for credit by students at the university, the following pledge is either required or implied: "On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment." The Honor Code (http://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obliged to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or TAs in this class.

It is assumed all work in this course will be completed independently unless the assignment is defined as a group project, in writing by the instructor.
